◇ We have seen a considerable drop in attention span in the last week and today was also one of those days. We know that when warm weather arrives the last place the children want to be is in school. However, this lack of attention seems to be arriving early this year. Please help us in getting your child to bed early, emphasizing that school is still in session and they still have lots to learn. We are trying our best to keep a "Normal" routine as long as possible. Thank you for your help in making the end of the year a successful and productive time.

◇ Be sure to return your surveys that were in your monthly folder. It is of great importance that we have feedback in order to decide if we should move ahead with the plans to have a

◇ READ! READ! READ! Please get pledges and read during the month of April. All money collected will help rebuild a Catholic school in Haiti. Friday will be our PAJAMA DAY. Children should bring in their pledge money and come dressed in appropriate pajamas. No short pajamas or tank top pajamas please. The weather is certainly not warm enough and some of them are too revealing. We will explain this to the children in school also.

◇ Thursday is our author visit. It is sure to be an exciting afternoon for the children. Please be sure to ask them about it.

◇ Be sure to check your calendars in regards to wearing shorts.
